

Whether you are just passing through onto other destinations, doing a bit of business in town, or planning an extended stay, please join us at a local Bed and Breakfast. Most are located within the designated Chatham Historic District and a short walk from downtown Chatham business offices and stores. Take a break from the cookie-cutter accommodations of the corporate motel and hotel chains and enjoy a taste of Southern hospitality ... Chatham-style!

Note: The telephone area code for Chatham and the surrounding area is 434.

La Chaumière Cottage

On the north side of town, Bill and Mary Lee Black offer a comfortable and memorable stay in the La Chaumière Cottage. Located at 332 North Main Street, a block north of the intersection of Main and Hurt Streets (the latter is also known as Chalk Level Road or VA-685), the La Chaumière Cottage was originally built in the 1890's as a mercantile. Don't let its moniker (meaning "thatched roof cottage") dissuade you; modern conveniences have been incorporated into the historic structure. They can be found here on the web. Call for reservations at 432-7721, or send e-mail to mblack@chathamhall.org.

Why Stay in a B&B?

The tradition of touring the countryside is as old as the horse-drawn coach. Travelers would find roadside inns to rest for the night and particularly valued those that could provide a clean bed and a hearty breakfast at a reasonable cost. The modern-day Bed and Breakfast (B&B) industry thrives today in large part because they provide an atmosphere of warmth and coziness that traditional hotels simply can't match. Since our B&B owners live on the same premises, they bring a different perspective to the job than someone who works a shift behind a hotel reception desk and then goes home to forget about the customers left behind.

At B&Bs, "customers" truly are guests, and we think it shows. We'll point out the best restaurants based on what you might have a taste for that day, point you to romantic spots, direct you to different points of interest, and much more. Our businesses grow as guests become regular visitors. All of these factors combine to make sure your stay is full of some great memories.
